

SOPHIA:

Journal of Philosophy

Volume XVI

2020-2022

Sophia is a non-profit journal, first published in 1998, intended to provide a forum for undergraduate students to exhibit the toils of their undergraduate years. Published by the University of Victoria Philosophy Student Union, Sophia provides the opportunity for students from UVic, as well as universities and colleges across Canada and the world, to present philosophical thought, aiming at fostering an environment encouraging philosophical discourse, debate, and contemplation. Although content is principally oriented toward philosophy students, Sophia endeavours to be accessible to all disciplines; philosophy is, after all, not merely and activity for philosophy students alone.

All constructive criticism and comments concerning any of the published works, or presentation of the journal itself, is welcome and encouraged to facilitate the further education of authors and editors.

Sophia is supported by the fundraising efforts of the Philosophy Student Union, with financial support from the University of Victoria Students' Society and the University of Victoria Philosophy Faculty.

Like the Philosophy Student Union itself, Sophia is dedicated to supporting diversity within the study of philosophy. Each article was reviewed anonymously to reduce bias in evaluating the merits of the submissions.

Disclaimer: The author of each article appearing in this journal is solely responsible for the content, including facts, statements, opinions, and data. The publication of each article shall not constitute or be deemed to constitute any representation of the views of the editors, the UVic Department of Philosophy, or the University of Victoria.
