A manifesto of Monstrosity

The current Christian age cloaks itself in the masque of secularism. Popular western culture presents history and its past in such a way that believers have built up a dichotomy between the zealous, religious past of crusade warfare, Saint's relics and a secular present of Prime Ministers and neoliberal capitalism. This is the lie that we have all been fed. The medieval period is used as a catch all phrase to include everything "primitive". Christian and violent.

The glaring untruths of the current Christian ideology can only be apprehended one piece at a time. The 19th and 20th Centuries reveal in cinema, literature and visual arts that no other time period is as pre-occupied with imagined demons, torture, zealous mysticism and cults of authority. If a celebrity gets a new tattoo, waves of followers flock to their local ink-parish and receive the blessing of the head of someone else's dead bulldog on their thighs. Passion is upheld as the highest value in political democracy and faith in the strength of belief often elects politicians whom we don't like very much (save Master Sanders of House Vermont and Duke of Brooklyn). "Geek culture" has replaced the cult of relics and people choose their favourite icons and buy miniature statues, sacred texts, signatures and sometimes hairs or other corporeal remains attached to these celebrities. The cult of Elvis is nothing less than a rock and roll cult of sanctity.

The most disingenuous of all untruths upheld by the Christian world order is that Atheism is a contemporary phenomenon and that there were no un-believers before modernity. This is how contemporary Western powers mask their own Christian pretenses. The medieval period is one of incredible disbelief. In the early period, pagan myths and legends had to be used to create local saints throughout Europe because Christian theology did not appeal to most Pagans. Many would resent my use of the term Pagan. "Pagan" has the same negative valence today as it did for the patriarchal church order in the early centuries. The term still generically refers to countless vastly differing belief systems that are Christianoform in scope. Is there a way to re-appropriate Paganism from the establishment?

no.

This manifesto discards the old systems of parody and opposition.

We discard Satan and We discard the gods of Europe.

We discard Internet Atheism, which is often nothing but a group of teenage boys who have just discovered how to disbelieve and presume that it gives them social and intellectual advantages over the rest of society. Pretentious and un-provable like Christianity.

We flagellate all of my own religious theology. Pretentious WASTE of TIME.

Thanks for reading.

Did we waste your time?

Perhaps you've been converted.

VAMPS.

Neither the Victorians nor the Medievals can match the current obsession with blood, pain, mysticism and monstrosity.
